AUSTRALIA CUP

SEMI-FINAL

SOUTH MELBOURNE
HELLAS

vs.

APIA-LEICHHARDT

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 7th, 1965

It can be said without fear of contradiction that when the first Australia Cup Competition commenced in 1962, it marked the culmination of many years of effort and development by the then Federation Chairman, the late Dr. H. Seamonds.

It had been Henry Seamonds' vision to create a national image for Soccer in Australia. As long as Soccer was played merely in its regions and its States, the proposition of its obtaining any form of national recognition was merely fantasy.

In the past three years the Australia Cup competition has probably done more to weld the Sport into a truly National body than any other single development.

There is much yet to do to achieve this ultimate goal. But the door has been opened.

Eligibility to enter the Australia Cup competition is restricted to League and Cup Leaders in each State. State Member Federations nominate the teams — this year four each from New South Wales and Victoria, 1 each from Queensland, South Australia, Western Australia, Northern N.S.W. and A.C.T. A total of £3,000 will be divided as prize money amongst the final four places — £1,500 to the winner, £800 to the runner up, and £350 each to 3rd and 4th placegetters.

In 1962 the Australia Cup was won by the N.S.W. club, Yugal. It was followed by a Victorian Club in 1963 — Slavia-Port Melbourne and in 1964 the honours remained in Victoria through George Cross.

With the rapid strides which Soccer has made throughout Australia in the past few years, it is not outside the realm of reality to look forward to the day when an Australia Cup winner will come from outside the two major-population States. For it is in the bringing together of the Soccer-playing communities of all States of the Commonwealth that the Australia Cup finds its true purpose.

THE UPS AND DOWNS OF THE 1965 AUSTRALIA CUP

Right from the outset the preliminary rounds of this year's Australia Cup provided interest and excitement.

One of the highlights in the early stages was the late entry by Juventus A.C.T. only a matter of a few weeks after an A.C.T. representative was admitted to the series. Juventus qualified as a result of their fine record in winning their Competition, the Ampol and Federation Cups.

The South Australian Juventus

Club earned the right to represent its State with an unconvincing win over Croatia, but then justified their position by resoundingly beating the West Australian Swan Athletic Club and then qualifying for the Quarter Finals.

Queensland was unfortunate in not seeing a representative team go further. After the Hellenic vs. Coalstars match at Brisbane (a seesaw excitement feast) the winning Hellenic combination succumbed to Wallsend 5-1.

A number of teams in the latter stages of the competition will suffer from the inability to field their strongest teams, due to the World Cup squad, which is training in Cairns. Budapest-St. George was one of these which—with two star forwards out of action—may have contributed to their going down to Hakoah last week. The Victorian South Melbourne Hellas Club proved their forecasters right in presenting just too much strength and experience to their South Australian opponents.

Some aspects of the the 1966 World Cup

The current series of the World Cup is of special significance to Australia. The elimination rounds against North Korea will take place in Cambodia on November 21st to 24th and to this end the 20-man Australian squad is undergoing a rigorous training programme to ensure their fitness for this all-important milestone in Australian Soccer history.

But if Australia should go down in these elimination rounds this would not be to its discredit. Such premier Soccer Nations as Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia (the 1962 Finalists) Scotland, Sweden, Austria, may not qualify.

Teams which have qualified to date or which are considered most likely to be the winners in their groups are Brazil, the defending cup holders, England—next year's host nation, Portugal, Hungary, France, Russia, Uruguay, West Germany, Chile, Argentine and Mexico.

This then will be, without doubt, the greatest-ever World Cup series. It will be watched by over 2 million spectators at the grounds and by many more times this number, via the many television hook-ups being arranged to the many countries in which World Cup fever rages. Between now and the moment that the final whistle blows in the late afternoon of July 30th, 1966, the world will have seen Soccer bridge the boundaries of nationality and colour, race and creed, which is the unique ability of a great sport.

The participation of the Australians is a fact to make every Soccer enthusiast proud of the rapid development of the sport in this country.

1965 AUSTRALIAN YOUTH CARNIVAL

(by Terry Smith)

A vigorous and aggressively confident Northern N.S.W. team has won the Australian youth championship for the first time.

Northern N.S.W. scored a 4-0 victory over Queensland in the final to complete the Under 18 series, which was played in Brisbane, with an unbeaten record. There was never any doubt about which team was going to win from the time that the Northern N.S.W. centre forward, Gary Randall, chased a long ball through the middle and scored a goal in the opening seconds of play.

In all, five States contested for the Youth Championship—the two previous winners, South Australia and N.S.W., with Queensland, Northern N.S.W. and Western Australia.

The various matches were played at the Exhibition Ground and Heath Park and the standard of play—particularly when South Australia figured in a 2-all draw with N.S.W.—was most encouraging with a view to Australia's future representation in International competition.

Northern N.S.W. and Queensland qualified for the final with unbeaten records after a series of matches in which each State played the other on one occasion.

The final points after this "round robin" tournament which produced an exciting finish over the last two days, were Northern N.S.W. 7, Queensland 6, South Australia 4, N.S.W. 2 and Western Australia 1.

It was interesting to learn that every member of the Northern N.S.W. squad was born in Australia and an ominous thought for the other States is that no less than 12 of the players will be available for next year's carnival.

The final was controlled by one of Australia's new F.I.F.A. referees Vince Dobinson.

Northern N.S.W. is to be congratulated on becoming the first State to win the Youth Championship while playing away from home and the team's record of scoring 12 goals and conceding only one during the series emphasises its superiority.

Not a single complaint was heard about the organisation of the carnival and this reflects great credit on a group of hard-working local officials headed by the Queensland Soccer Federation's full time Secretary, Bill Malcolm, Bob McVie and Eddie Riley.
